BADASS OF THE WEEK

Hector A. Cafferata, Jr
US Marine Korean War

All the other members of his fire team became casualties, creating a gap in the lines, during an attack. Cafferata waged a lone battle with grenades and rifle fire as the attack endangered the integrity of the entire defensive perimeter. Becoming the target of automatic weapons, rifles, grenades, and mortars, he maneuvered up and down the line and delivered fire against the enemy, killing 15, wounding many more, and forcing the others to withdraw. Marine reinforcements were then able to support the position. Later that same morning a hostile grenade landed in a trench occupied by wounded, Cafferata, under heavy fire, seized it in his right hand and hurled it before it detonated, seriously wounding him in the right hand and arm. He fought on until he was struck by a sniper's bullet and forced to be evacuated.
